Insallation view of Eric Firestone Gallery, West Palm Beach, FL, 2026.

Eric Firestone Gallery is pleased to announce its season-opening presentation in its new West Palm Beach location on November 28, 2026. The opening installation features historical works and contemporary voices in dialogue within a rotating salon presentation. This energetic layering of past and present creates exciting opportunities for discovery across generations.

The presentation includes 30 artists working across varied media including textile, hand-carved stone, ceramic, painting, and plaster, resulting in a fresh, stimulating multiplicity of form and texture. The artists are based across the country and internationally, and come from a variety of cultural backgrounds, allowing for revelatory connections in the dynamic presentation.

The season-opening installation is consistent with the gallery's mission of championing overlooked histories and emerging perspectives within American art. The gallery is known for both reexamining careers of important American artists including Pat Passlof and Joe Overstreet, as well as propelling contemporary artists, many of whom will be exhibited for the first time in the gallery's Florida location. These include Megan Koons, Almo Talud, and Hervé Garcia, among others. Regular shifts in the presentation will keep the space in a state of active discovery.

Gallery artists are currently featured prominently in museum exhibitions across the country. Two major works by Joe Overstreet are included in the newly-opened Hard Art at MoMA PS1, New York, on view through March 15, 2027. Thomas Sills is shown in Geometries at the Studio Museum in Harlem, New York. Miriam Schapiro is featured in The Four (Revisited): Judy Chicago, Lynda Benglis, Miriam Schapiro, Bonnie Sherk (1973/2026) at the de Saisset Museum of Santa Clara University, California. Lauren dela Roche is featured in the Great Rivers Biennial 2026 exhibition at the Contemporary Art Museum, St. Louis, Missouri.

Eric Firestone Gallery additionally has locations on Great Jones Street in New York City, and in East Hampton, NY. The gallery participates in major international art fairs and is a member of the Art Dealers Association of America. Coverage of Eric Firestone Gallery's exhibitions and art fair presentations has appeared in Architectural Digest, Artforum, The Financial Times, The Guardian, The New York Times, Vogue, and Wallpaper, among others.
